

Left to right: Lisa, Jamie, Lynn, Amy, Katlin, Heather, Tiombe

AMY'S LAUNDRY • CULTIVATED • MERCER FLOOR & HOME DOWNTOWN YOGA, BARRE & CYCLE • CREATIVLEI CARROLL HOSPITAL FOUNDATION

How do local Main Street businesses support each other?

"Our common values and goals are the foundation of our support, but we also take time to talk to each other about concerns and solutions, successes and community improvement." – AMY DOODY, AMY'S LAUNDRY

"The relationships built within this community have allowed all of us to continue to connect, grow, and thrive, even during these unprecedented times."

– LYNN OLEXY & JAMIE SCHNEEMAN, DOWNTOWN YOGA, BARRE, AND CYCLE

"Carroll Hospital and BridgingLife are so fortunate to have these women business leaders in our community. Their support of hospice services and breast cancer wellness in particular, are great examples of their generosity and mission to maintain a healthy community." – HEATHER AKERS, CARROLL HOSPITAL FOUNDATION

"Small businesses account for half of our nation's jobs. They're a huge part of our community soul because of neighbors, cousins, and friends all working together, not just for profit, but for the betterment of our homes." – KATLIN CHOATE, MERCER FLOOR & HOME

"It is a privilege to work with so many strong, local, female business owners to bring creative and memorable visual art to their storefronts, highlighting the work they do to build our community." – LISA WALTERS, CREATIVLEI

"Without a doubt our Main Street small businesses know how to root for one another in more than just words - we know it's an action. It starts with a mindset that overflows into deeds, spreads into habits, and becomes the essence of how we collectively lead our community." – TIOMBE PAIGE, CULTIVATED

Main Street businesses are about more than location. They're about community, hard work, doing more than expected, and believing that you make a difference. Each of the dynamic women in the picture above have a business located on or near Main Street in Westminster, MD, and utilize Amy's Laundry for both commercial and personal needs.

Amy's Laundry provides a safe, clean, and friendly environment for our community, offering customers the area's most efficient washers and dryers that are maintained to the very highest standard of cleanliness and functionality.

271 East Main Street
Westminster, MD 21157
(410) 848-1616
AmysLaundry.com